BOYS ACT TOO MUCH LIKE OLD TIMERS

judges that the attrition has struck fire. The trouble arose primarily from a very small spark. Every one who has made the rounds of the new Court House has had his sion assaulted at every three or four paces by large-sized cards adjuring him not to expectorate on the floor. Now, the to expectorate on the floor. Now, the young gentlemen who run the moot court on in the habit of turning these signs, or such as were in the vicinity of the Orphans' Court rooms, and on the reverse side inscribing an announcement of the most court being in session, and an invitation to enter. It appears that the junitor thought the young men were acting too much like the elder lawyers, sort of careless whether they obeyed rules or no, treating with disdain the adjuration to spit in the cusp idores, smoking Havana cigars or even vile tobies in places where only an old member of the bar might be tolerated, in fact making the manners of their moot court too much like those of a real one. SNORED TOO LOUD.

That the foreman of the last jury that sat on a murder trial fell asleep and snored so heavily as to annoy Judge Hawkins and his court in the next room; that the most court sign was left on the door, inviting the popu-lace to enter, thereby annoying the Orphans' Court Judges and suitors, and especially the tipstaves, who have been strongly inciting the janitors to rebel.

All this discontent is alleged to have culminated in calling the attention of the County Commissioners to the matter, and it is said they could think of nothing in the way of remedy, except the institution of some kind of a suit against the young gen-tlemen. It is said that proceedings have been entered before either Alderman Mc-Kenna of Alderman McMasters, but efforts to get satisfaction on this point were nuga-tory, nor could anyone be found who would consent to disclose the nature of the com-plaint. It was stated somewhat positively, however, that County Solicitor Geyer had been instructed to prosecute, and it was in-timated that Messrs. W. D. Moore, Will-iam Reardon and Thomas M. Marshall would look after the interest of the deendants.

It could not be learned whether all of the young men were sued or only the officers. The latter are James McKirdy, President; John N. Dunn, Vice President; Secretary, F. A. Ammon: Prothonotary and Clerk of Courts, T. Morgan Silvey; District At-torney and Treasurer, Charles Schlegel; Sheriff, Charles Fetterman; County Detective, E. J. McKenna.

THEIR FUTURE PLANS.

Their friends hope the prosecution will not interiere with the next session of court, Saturday, as at that time it is proposed to adopt a new constitution and new rules, and elect new officers. It is also proposed to elect a supreme court, to be composed of three members of the bar; an advisory committee and a regular committee to prepare trial lists. The year will be divided into four terms of ten weeks each, and the executive committee will select judges to serve ten weeks, judges for all the courts, not exwill meet twice a year, but the dates have

Twice a month sections of Blackstone are to be dissected and lectured upon, and members are required, or at least expected, to digest these sections so as to be able to disthe benefit of all.

Should the association survive the present attack, it will be wisdom for the janitors and tipstaves to give it a wide berth, as there are supposed to be metes and bounds to the prerogatives of even janitors and A correct copy of the original letter:
